

SOURCES & ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Absolutely indispensable people to me and this book –

ArmaLite
Walt Berger
D.I. Boyd and the United States Army Marksman-ship Unit
Brownells
Hornady Bullets
Jimmy Knox
John Krieger
Troy Lawton
Derrick Martin, Accuracy Speaks
Scott Medesha

I want to extend a very special thanks to Scott who, despite my unmerciful grillings, always found time to answer my questions and provide his advice and experience.

Charlie Milazzo
Boots Obermeyer
Lew Tippie
Steve Theye, Sinclair International Kevin Thomas, Sierra Bullets
G. David and Sue Tubb
Albert Turner
Bill Wylde
Paula J. Randall Pagán at USAMU Public Affairs Office who helped set up my interviews and provided me with photos.
And a lot of other folks who know who they are...

My “just” List –

If you need reloading tools and extremely useful accessories, just call Sinclair.

If you need components, just call Widen-er’s.

If you need parts, especially the serious stuff, just call Brownells.

For oem type parts, just call ArmaLite or American Spirit Arms.

know about. So if anyone wants to take issue about not being included in this list, first check your customer files: I've either never bought anything from you or what I bought sucked.*

New things a comin' –

*Handloading For Competition [making the target bigger] available early 2001. And a new book with David Tubb by then too. Also in process is a series of books on NRA High Power Rifle competition; a new gunsmith-oriented book that will be a supplement and revision to this one, called The Competitive AR15: a technical guide; and a periodical from Zediker Publishing: Competitive Shooters Journal. A scorebook, a load data collection, and more.
Check our website for details on these and other projects, plus a whole lottamo! There are also a lot of updates to this book. And please keep e-mails coming to me. I will help as best I can answering questions about AR15s and whatever comes up.
